Thank You for Making an Impact on National Tree Day

Dear Event Planner,

Thank you for planning an event for National Tree Day! It's a time to bring to the forefront the meaningful and tangible ways to take action on climate change and connect with nature.

Included in this toolkit is a guide to help you successfully plan your own event. This resource serves as a blueprint for individuals and organizations alike, empowering them to host impactful events in celebration of National Tree Day.

At Tree Canada, we firmly believe in the transformative power of trees to nurture the planet and our communities, now and in the future. As stewards of our environment, it is our collective responsibility to ensure the vitality of natural landscapes for generations to come.

Tree Canada is the only national non-profit organization dedicated to planting and nurturing trees in rural and urban environments. For National Tree Day, we prioritize community engagement and education that empowers Canadians to make change happen where they live and work. By celebrating this day, you are helping us achieve these goals. While we are planning planting events across the country, your efforts are helping reach people who may not otherwise be able to participate.

On behalf of all of us at Tree Canada, I extend my deepest gratitude to each of you for your commitment to community greening. Together, we will continue to make a meaningful difference in the world, one tree at a time!

Nicole Hurtubise
Chief Executive Officer, Tree Canada

Getting Started

Here are some key things you will need to consider as you plan your event:

ORGANIZE A COMMITTEE

It's more difficult to plan alone. If you are an organization, you likely have a team to support you. As an individual, you can gather family, friends, or other passionate individuals in the community to form a committee.

CREATE A PLAN

Plan out your event in detail. Determine what kind of event you would like to do. This guide contains information on how to organize a tree planting event.

DELEGATE

Now that you have an idea of what kind of event you are planning, it's time to assign and delegate tasks before and during your event. Create a comprehensive checklist and assign each to a person.

BUDGET

Creating a budget is an important part of the planning process. It helps you to create a financial goal for your event (depending on the event), as well as plan for expenses. Brainstorm and identify your possible sources of income (ticket sales, sponsorship, etc.) and an estimate of all potential expenses, including venue costs, decoration, food, and entertainment.

DOCUMENT THE EVENT

Plan to document your event with photos and videos. This is often a forgotten step, but it is very important to consider in planning your event. These photos and videos don't even need to be professional. They will support your future events. Just be sure it is clear that anyone participating in your event agrees to have their image captured.

Tree Planting Event

Hosting a tree planting event contributes positively to the local environment and fosters community engagement and awareness. Trees play a vital role in combating climate change by absorbing carbon dioxide, improving air quality, and providing habitat for wildlife. Beyond environmental benefits, tree planting events offer a tangible way for individuals and communities to come together, connect with nature, and make a positive impact on their surroundings. Planting trees can beautify public spaces and create lasting memories for participants, instilling a sense of pride and stewardship in the community.

Below is a checklist of everything you will need to host your own tree planting event for National Tree Day.

Tree Planting Event Checklist

○ PICK YOUR SITE

Identify a site where you would like to host your tree planting event whether it be a park, school grounds, or a community space like a library or community centre.

○ OBTAIN LAND PERMISSIONS

Identify the landowner and acquire their planting permission.

How do you identify a landowner?

- Search for a title in the land registry provided at the end of this document.
- Ask your municipality if they are aware.

You can use the template provided at the end of this document to request use of the land.

○ CHECK FOR BURIED INFRASTRUCTURE

Work with the landowner to request locates (ground markings identifying the position of utility lines) to ensure your planting won't disturb any buried infrastructure. Visit Click Before You Dig to see what service provider you can contact in your province or territory.

○ SELECTING PLANTS

Think about the goals of your project and what size and species of plants are best suited. For example, fruit-bearing trees to promote access to food sources, smaller trees and shrubs to naturalize an area, or large trees to provide shade and mitigate the urban heat island effect. You will also need to test the soil at your site and pick a compatible tree.

IMPORTANT!

Certain plants may not be suitable for your planting site, no matter how much you want them. Consideration for nearby buildings, roads, and overhead wires may conflict with mature tree height and root spread. Additionally, the biophysical conditions of your site (soil texture, pre-existing vegetation, exposure to direct light and wind) will also narrow the list of species that will thrive.

○ BUDGET

Calculate how much this activity will cost, bearing in mind the price of the plants, mulch, maintenance materials such as stem guards or deer fencing, and longer-term expenses such as watering or pruning services. You may also need to purchase shovels and other equipment if the landowner cannot provide them. Estimating the overall cost of your planting activity ahead of time will help establish realistic fundraising targets and ensure you are budgeting for every important step.

- SELECT A SOURCE
Select a local tree nursery or garden centre where you can acquire the plants. The staff there can also be helpful resources for suggesting plants well-suited to your site.
- LEARN TO PLANT
Planting a tree is not as easy as it seems. All planters must be instructed on proper technique, which involves digging a large enough hole, avoiding planting too deep, ensuring appropriate compaction when infilling, properly adding amendments such as compost or a mycorrhizal associate (if applicable), and avoiding injury. You should identify who will be leading the demo at your activity, and ensure they are properly trained and confident to instruct others. You can request aid from a local urban forestry specialist or visit our Tree Planting Guide and review our How to Plant Trees videos.
- SET A DATE
After getting permission from the landowner and confirming a supplier, pick a planting date far enough in advance to gather the volunteers you will need.
- PLAN FOR THE FUTURE
Establish a maintenance plan and schedule for watering, weeding, re-applying mulch, pruning, etc. Don't hesitate to confirm this plan with your local nursery. Learn more about tree care beyond planting in this blog article.
- REQUEST VOLUNTEERS
Engage volunteers for the whole scope of work (including maintenance). Remember that many hands make light work; we typically assign 3 to 4 small potted trees per person. Once your event is scheduled you can use Tree Canada's National Tree Day promotional tools to gather more volunteers for the day of your planting event and the maintenance work required afterwards.
- OBTAIN TREES
With your supplier, arrange a delivery date either the day before or the day of your planting. If trees will be stored outside, keep them shaded and watered to avoid stress.
- GET READY
Gather your planting tools and materials, such as shovels, buckets for water, a watering source, mulch, and more. Any site preparation such as mowing, tilling, pre-digging holes, fencing off the planting area, etc. should be completed before your planting day. Promotional signage can help direct volunteers and passers-by to your planting site on the day itself.

Promotion and Marketing

Once you have planned and scheduled your event, it's time to promote it!

Timing: For public events seeking volunteers, aim to promote at least one month in advance to ensure ample participation from the community.

Gather Your Assets

Create a Compelling Poster: Design a poster with a clear call to action such as “Come plant with us!”, “Join us!”, or “Volunteer with us!” This visual should grab attention and convey the essence of your event.

Utilize Visual Content: Leverage photos and videos from past events to showcase the experience and generate interest on social media!

National Tree Day Assets: Tree Canada is happy to provide general promotional materials for National Tree Day events. All assets, including usage guidelines and key messages, can be downloaded here.

Register Your Event with Tree Canada

Tree Canada Website: Register your National Tree Day event on the Tree Canada website to be entered into a draw for a free community planting event. Events must take place during National Forest Week to be eligible. Visit the Tree Canada website to fill out the registration form, indicating whether your event is public or private, and upload posters or photos.

Promote Your Event

a) Share Your Event on Multiple Platforms

Amplify your event's reach by sharing it with local newsletters, blogs, and social media platforms.

Event Management Platforms: Promoting your event on a suitable platform facilitates managing attendee interest and offers a straightforward and secure registration process. Some platforms offer free services for events that do not charge for participation.

Outreach: Engage local community networks to spread the word. Find our Event Outreach Template at the end of this document to help you with outreach.

b) Engage on Social Media

Create an event listing on your organization's Facebook page. Encourage participants to share and mark their interest.

To get the most out of organic social media posts on any platform, be sure to post regularly. This does not always need to be about the event but could be about the activities occurring at the event, highlighting key personas involved, sharing information and facts to encourage attendance, etc.

Tag Tree Canada: Mention @TreeCanada and use the hashtags #NationalTreeDay and #NTD across all platforms to increase visibility. See examples at the end of this document.

c) Local Media

Contact local newspapers, radio stations, and TV channels to promote your event. Provide detailed event information and explain why it matters to your community. Media outlets may feature your event free of charge if it supports a charitable cause! Find our Local Media Template at the end of this document, to support you with outreach.

Volunteer Management

Volunteer management may be a key element of your event, such as if you are hosting a cleanup or a tree planting event. Here are key things to consider:

Recruiting Volunteers

Define Roles and Responsibilities: Clearly outline the tasks and responsibilities for the volunteer role(s). This may be a few simple lines, but it is important to be clear about what they are registering for.

Provide Clear Instructions for Registering: Include instructions on how interested individuals can apply to volunteer for the event in your communications. Make it easy for them to express interest and provide necessary information.

Managing Volunteers

Orientation: Conduct an orientation session to introduce volunteers to the event goals, their roles, and expectations. This could be detailed training on specific tasks or safety protocols or a quick reminder for the agenda of the day and any information they need to know before the event begins.

Communicate Effectively: Maintain open communication channels with volunteers before, during, and after the event. Provide contact information and encourage volunteers to ask questions or raise concerns. Establish clear lines of communication, such as a dedicated email address, group messaging app, or phone number, where volunteers can reach out for assistance or clarification.

Provide Support and Recognition: Offer support throughout the event, such as breaks, refreshments, and access to necessary resources. Recognize and appreciate volunteers' contributions.

Post-Event Follow-Up

Be sure to publicly thank everyone involved once the event is over! Express gratitude to everyone who contributed to the event's success, including sponsors, volunteers, speakers, and attendees. This helps in maintaining positive relationships and encourages continued support for future events.

Feedback Collection

Send a survey to anyone who attended your event. Be sure to include questions that help gauge how much everyone enjoyed themselves and ask if they would attend again in the future. This provides an opportunity to gather feedback from attendees, participants, and stakeholders. This feedback is invaluable for assessing the event's success, understanding what worked well, and identifying areas for improvement in future events.

I hope this letter finds you well. My name is [Your Name] and I am writing to you with a humble request regarding your property [provide a brief description of the location or any identifiable features].

I have a strong passion for environmental conservation and the greening of our local urban environment, and I am reaching out to you today to request permission to plant trees and/or shrubs on your land. I believe that by establishing green spaces, we can not only enhance the beauty of the area but also contribute positively to the local ecosystem.

There are so many benefits of planting trees and shrubs. I assure you that I will take full responsibility for the maintenance and upkeep of the planted vegetation. Furthermore, I am open to discussing any specific terms or conditions you may have regarding this proposal. Whether it be selecting the types of trees and shrubs, outlining boundaries, or agreeing upon a maintenance schedule, I am flexible and willing to accommodate your preferences.

I understand that granting permission to plant trees and shrubs on your property is a significant decision, and I deeply appreciate your consideration of my request.
